HELD UP BY HER LOVER.

A Highwayman Loses a Bride Through Her Pluck as a Stage Driver.

"Of course you've heard innumerable romances of women stage drivers," said F. C. Olcutt of Cheyenne to a reporter. "So have I, and most of them are fiction, too, I have no doubt, but I know of one in which every word is true. The heroine of my story was not the regular driver of the coach which I have in mind, but during the trip I speak of she was a substitute for her brother, who was a farmer, and having been reared on the farm she was noted for feats more usual to men than women. For instance, she was an excellent horsewoman, could ride almost any horse, was a first rate shot and was not afraid of anything. Often she had driven the coach for her brother, when from any cause he wanted to have a day off. She did it well, too; perfectly, in fact, and she was the pride of all the people roundabout.

"Now she had a lover, which was perfectly natural and quite commendable. Her lover lived with his parents on a neighboring farm. He lacked a great deal of being a model for a Y. M. C. A. superintendent, but yet his infractions of the ordinary amenities of life were not so flagrant and glaring as to give him a notorious character. Still, he was shiftless and inclined to wildness. He would often go to town, be absent three or four days and return very reticent as to where he had been or as to what he had been doing. This morning my heroine cracked the whip over the stage horses for her 60 mile drive. William—she called him that, though the rest of the people thereabouts called him Wild Bill—was absent from home, supposedly in Cheyenne.

"The coach was a mail coach, of course, and aside from the revenue derived from the government for carrying the mail had a good passenger traffic, for 10 years ago railroads were scarce in that country. The coach left at 6 o'clock in the morning and was due at its destination at 8 o'clock in the evening. Everything went well, the passengers were very merry until about 4 o'clock in the evening. At just about that hour five men jumped out from behind a bowlder in front of the coach and demanded 'Hands up!' The nervy little woman on the box didn't 'hands up' worth a cent. Instead, she dropped her lines, grabbed a winchester and was pouring a fusillade of bullets into the robbers before [illegible] comprehend what was going on.

"She so completely astonished them that they for a second or two didn't know 'straight up,' as the saying goes. Her example inspired the passengers to courage, and they, too, opened fire. The result was that all the robbers save one fled ingloriously. The exception was one who had dropped at the first shot with a wound in his right shoulder. Well, after the others had fled, the girl came down from the box to look at the wounded man. She stooped over him and pulled off the mask, revealing to her astonished eyes the features of Wild Bill, her lover. No, she didn't marry him, but she took him into town, had his wound attended to, and never revealed to the authorities what had occurred. That's a true story."—Fort Worth (Tex.) Gazette.

The Spring on Mount Mitchell.

One of the most singular springs I ever saw is on the top of Mount Mitchell. It is on the summit and is clear and cold. It has never been known to go dry and is seemingly without a bottom, as lines have been dropped down to a great depth. As Mount Mitchell is the highest peak on the Alleghanies and the nearest mountain of greater altitude is in Colorado, about 2,000 miles distant, the query naturally arises as to the source of this spring.

The only conclusion is that it is a siphon spring, but if so the water flows at least 2,000 miles and under innumerable rivers and streams, under prairies and under mountains, until it reaches the peak, where it forces its way through a fissure to the top. The water is remarkably clear and pure and shows no trace of its having encountered any minerals during its long journey, although minerals are found on every side of the place where it rises to the surface. I have never heard any satisfactory explanation of the phenomena.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Barber Shops and Consumption.

The report of a case of tuberculosis of the bearded face will direct attention to the danger of transmission of tuberculosis through the intermediation of the instruments used by the barber. To prevent such an occurrence, each individual should have a separate brush and cup and napkin and razor. If one razor is used in common, it should not again be used before having been placed for a short time in boiling water and dried, while persons who present themselves to the barber with diseases of the bearded skin should be advised to consult medical men.—Medical News.

A Moot Point.

First Belle—Then both Herr Schulze and Herr Lehmann had made her an offer of marriage—which was the lucky man?

Second Ditto—Herr Schulze. Herr Lehmann married her.—Oberlander Bote.

THE CURTAIN.

BEFORE.

A thrill of rapturous applause
From every row ascending.
The actor gives a gracious pause,
To those before low bending.
Admired of all the ladies rare,
What compliments they utter!
How many hearts amid the fair
Are now set in a flutter!

The play goes on. The curtain falls
Upon the act of splendor.
Each heart emotional recalls
Its incidents so tender.
Oh, sweet the glamor of the scene.
With nothing coarse to break it!
Imagination rules serene,
And fancy's what we make it.

BEHIND.

The leading lady, just deceased,
Has got a fit of laughter.
The leading man, from toil released,
A sandwich has sent after.
The pasteboard rocks are put aside,
The lovely sylphs are yawning.
The dancing girls in plain clothes hide,
No beaux around them fawning.

The funny men are scowling now,
And he who gold dust scattered
Upon the scene, with happy brow,
Looks doleful now and shattered.
And so it is throughout the days
Of this our life uncertain.
To view it truly, you must gaze
On both sides of the curtain.
—New York Clipper.

A Question of Letters.

Mr. Labouchere gives publicity to the grievance of some lady who had occasion to consult by letter a London specialist who had several times attended her. She was much annoyed on hearing a few days later that in the medico's absence from home her letters had been opened by his wife in the ordinary course of business. Mr. Labouchere thinks that doctors have no right to hand over their correspondence to third parties, even their wives, whom their patients may not desire to take into their confidence.

Well, there are two sides to the question, says a London paper. It is quite right that doctors should be as inscrutable as the Sphinx with regard to the privacy of their patients' affairs, and if it were known that a man was addicted to babbling he would rightly be placed under taboo. But when a man goes away from home for a few days, as go he must occasionally, his letters have to receive attention.

It is quite conceivable that in urgent cases the delay in forwarding a communication to the absentee might entail serious consequences, which could be obviated if the letter were opened on receipt, and who, pray, is there more likely to be discreet than the wife of the medico?

An Old Compliment.

One of the neatest and most admirable compliments ever paid was probably that of Crœsus to Cambyses. That harebrained monarch once, when the Persians and Crœsus were sitting with him, asked what sort of a man they thought him compared with his father Cyrus. The Persians, of course, like good courtiers, replied that he was better than his father, for he had all Cyrus' possessions and Egypt and the sea as well. Thus spoke the Egyptians. Crœsus, however, not being pleased with their opinion, spoke as follows: "Now, to me, O son of Cyrus, you do not seem equal to your father, for you have not such a son as he left behind him in you."—Westminster Review.

The Speed of Sense.

Hirsch proved that a touch on the face was recognized by the brain and responded to by a manual signal in the one-seventh part of a second. The scientist also found that the speed of sense differed for different organs, the sense of hearing being responded to in the one-sixth of a second, while that of sight required only one-fifth of a second to be recognized and signaled. In all three cases the distance traversed was about the same, so the natural inference is that the image travels more slowly than sound or touch.—St. Louis Republic.

Sins and Chains.

A native once came to Bombay loaded with 600 pounds of chains. He said that he had been a very wicked young man and as a punishment had chained himself up from sin. His plan did not work, however, and he had been adding to his chains constantly. When he traveled by train, he was charged partly as passenger and partly as freight.—Bombay Times.

A female drunkard at the Wellington police court, New Zealand, was recently discharged on account of her exemplary conduct when sober. The prisoner was 70 years of age, and the evidence showed that she was the sole support of her father and mother, aged respectively 98 and 96 years.

A reader informs the Worcester Gazette that the popular notion about funerals is a great mistake. To meet a funeral going in the opposite direction is a sign of good luck, and to see two funerals going in opposite directions is better still.

The title lieutenant comes from a word signifying "holding the place." A lieutenant colonel holds the place of a colonel in the absence of the latter; a lieutenant holds the place of a captain.

If the Hollanders actually undertake to drain the Zuyder Zee, the first item of expense will be a monster dam that will cost at least $18,000,000.

Germany only has preserved the title of grand duke, there being seven grand duchies in the German territory.

Their Spinal Staircase.

A most estimable and well known west end lady has been made the butt in times past of numerous well known but not estimable stories touching her unfamiliarity with the queen's English. She is reported to have spoken of an invalid daughter as indelicate, and of another, upon whose education much money had been lavished, as the most costive of all her children. It has also been related that most of the members of her family have been accustomed to ride to Baltimore on communion tickets. I have steadily refused to chronicle any of these yarns, because they have not really related to this good lady. They have been pure inventions, fastened upon her by malicious scandal mongers. Nor does the following relate to her:

A well known society woman of the west end, similarly unfamiliar with the niceties of the English language, spoke at one of the delightful teas of a spinal staircase of great beauty which had been constructed in the house of a neighbor. There was a bright girl near by who heard this architectural or anatomical reference. She said aside, and it was very mean of her:

"Perhaps the lady refers to her neighbor's back stairs."—Washington Capital.

Cow Ponies In the East.

A good many of these ponies are brought east to be used as polo ponies. They are as tough as whalebone and as plucky as a squaw. They show great intelligence and will follow a polo ball with less training than any horse known, not even excepting those bred in England especially for polo purposes. This fact has become generally known among polo enthusiasts in the east, and if you will examine the ponies used either at Newport, Cedarhurst or any of the other crack clubs, you will find that almost all of them bear the brands which are to be found in the registry books of Colorado and Texas.

The value of these ponies increases at a rapid rate. A fast one that costs $18 or $20 in Texas, after six weeks polo work at Colorado Springs or up at Glenwood, is often sold in the New York market at anywhere from $75 to $275, though the cost of sending east a carload holding 15 is only about $250. Personally, I do not see why there is not a good chance for horsemen to make money in this branch of their business. Western ponies make nice driving horses for light work.—New York Mail and Express.

How He Became "Private" Allen.

Allen of Mississippi is everywhere known as "Private" Allen, but it is not as generally known how he obtained this title. It was when he first ran for congress. He stumped the district with his competitor, a General Tucker, who opened the campaign with a rhetorical rhapsody in which he alluded to his war services and particularly described a battle in which he had commanded the Confederate side, beginning, "Fellow citizens, I slept one night in a tent on the mountain side awaiting the battle on the morrow."

When he had finished, Allen got up and said: "Friends and fellow citizens—What General Tucker told you about his sleeping in the tent that night before the battle is true. I know, for I was guarding that tent all night long in the cold and wet. Now, I want to say to all of you who were generals in the war and slept at night in your guarded tents, vote for him. But all you fellows that guarded the generals' tents in wet and cold, like me, you vote for Private Allen." Allen was triumphantly elected and has been "Private" since.—Boston Advertiser.

Ill Words Fly Far.

A minister who lived more than 300 years ago was anxious to show a lady in his congregation the evil of slandering others. So he asked her to do a very strange thing—to go to the market, buy a chicken just killed and still covered with feathers and walk a certain distance, plucking the bird as she went.

The lady did as she was directed and returned, anxious to know the meaning of the injunction.

"Retrace your steps," said the minister, "and gather up one by one all the feathers you have scattered."

"I cast the feathers carelessly away," said the woman, "and the wind carried them in all directions."

"Well, my daughter," the minister replied, "so it is with your words of slander. Like the feathers which the wind has scattered, they have been wafted in many directions. Call them back now if you can. Go, sin no more."—Ram's Horn.

Expensive Throat Treatment.

There is a doctor in New York city who has a worldwide reputation among singers and stage people for treating colds and sore throats. His office is filled all day with celebrated artists who have come to New York professionally, and who find their voices attacked by the hoarseness which is so fatal to public appearance. The average fee is $25, and many are charged $100 for a single throat treatment.—New York Ledger.

Weak, Tired, Nervous

Pains in the Stomach—Nine Years of Suffering

How It All Ended.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"For 9 years I have had a pain in my stomach besides nervousness, weak spells and constant tired feeling. For the first five years I did not doctor much but gradually growing worse, came to this state for the benefit of my health. I was treated by several good physicians but continued to grow worse. For the last year I have been confined to my bed nearly all the time. I became so weak I could stand but a few minutes at a time. I could eat but a little and I fell off in weight from 130 Pounds to 80.

About four months ago I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and from that time I have steadily improved in health and gained in strength. I also had a bunch on my neck as big as a hen's egg which bothered me to breathe. Since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla that has disappeared. During the past year my husband's body became bloated and he was unable to work. He took two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and is feeling as well as ever." MRS. ANGIE THOMAS, Sodaville, Oregon.

For City Marshal there were four aspirants, to wit: Eugene Robin, J. H. Albertson, Ed. Gillan and John Wagnon.

A CANARD.

The Published Death of Matthew C. Johnson a Cruel Hoax.

The death notice of Matthew Johnson, eldest son of Capt. Jas. Johnson of Buena Vista, which appeared in the Examiner of last Wednesday created great surprise in Sonoma, which turned into indignation when it became known that the young man was alive and well, and that the Examiner had been imposed upon. The offense is a most serious one and should Mr. Hearst, the proprietor, succeed in ferreting out the guilty party he will spare neither time nor money in convicting the impositor.

The Johnson family have hosts of relatives and friends in Oakland and San Francisco, many of whom upon reading the death notice of young Matthew took the evening train for Buena Vista where they arrived laden with floral tributes.

The hoax, which was a most cruel one, was undoubtedly the act of some person who did not realize the enormity of the offense.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson have no idea who the person was who caused the publication, or what motive there was in it.

Favors Disincorporation.

John Ludeman, City Trustee-elect, who will take his seat at the meeting of the Board on the first Wednesday of next month, states that he is in favor of disincorporating the town. He says that he will soon circulate a petition instructing the Board to call an election to vote on the proposition. Of course every one that is in favor of going backward instead of forward will stand in with the Trustee-elect. The INDEX-TRIBUNE, which is in favor old Sonoma first, last and all the time, and favors improvement and progress, will stand in with the intelligent, broad-minded and public spirited citizens of the town in opposing any such rule or ruin proposition. Let us gently whisper in your ear, John, that even if the people of Sonoma have done some very silly things in the past they were not all born yesterday.

Ellis vs. Mohn.

The civil suit of W. W. Ellis vs. H. C. Mohn to recover the sum of $6.25 balance due on a plumbing contract was tried before Judge Cheney yesterday afternoon who gave a verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $5.75 and costs of suit which will amount to about $20. The case was bitterly contested on both sides It was one of the most entertaining matinees that has been held in Judge Cheney's court for a long time. H. C. Gesford of Napa represented Mr. Ellis while Mr. Mohn made his own defense.

Singular Accident.

John Reve, son-in-law of Judge J. M. Cheney, while engaged in digging a grave in Mountain Cemetery on Friday of last week, ran the point of a sharp pick clear through one of his feet pinning it to the ground. It was with great difficulty he succeeded in drawing the sharp-pointed instrument out of his foot and making his way to his home, where he has since been confined with a painful and serious wound.

A MUTTON-HEADED OPINION.

On election day a cry was raised in this town that a communication which appeared in these columns signed "Observer" had done more harm than good for Messrs. Bulotti, Trudgen and Knight, whom the writer urged should be voted for by the people if they desired to consult the best interests of the town.

We take exceptions to that verdict and will say that if those who so expressed themselves possessed half the foresight of the writer of that communication the result of Monday's election would have been somewhat different.

It may not have been known to those who condemned the article in question, which was simply an endorsement of three good reputable citizens for the office of Trustee, that N. R. Knight had been brought out to defeat Wm. Trudgen. Such was the case, however, and the result was that the Knight men were engaged in cutting the throats of the Trudgen men and the Trudgen men, by way of retaliation, were going for the scalps of the Knight men.

This was the condition of affairs on the Saturday preceding the election. The object of "Observer's" article was a most worthy one It was to bring together the two opposing factions, and secure the election of three competent men to manage the city's affairs for the next few years.

That the article is question did more good than harm to the three candidates named is made patent to any intelligent person by perusing the election returns published elsewhere in these columns. It will be seen that Bulotti received one of the highest votes for Trustee on the ticket. As to Messrs. Knight and Trudgen, had not a truce been partially patched up between the respective supporters of those candidates through the influence of that article we make bold to assert that Mr. Knight would not have received half the votes he did, as at least twenty-five Trudgen men cast their votes for Mr. Knight, who otherwise would not have voted for him. As for Mr. Trudgen, he came out with fully as many votes as he would have secured had the communication in question not appeared.

We make this defense for the author of the article for the simple reason that he is well-informed and educated and his utterances were made without malice to any one, but for the sole purpose of standing in with the best interests of the town.

It is the proudest boast of the Briton that the sun never sets on her Majesty's empire. Some one of a geographical turn of mind has said the same in respect to the United States' possessions, putting it in this way: "It is a fact know to but few that the sun never sets on American soil. When it is 6 P. M. at Alto Island, Alaska, it is 9:36 A. M. on the coast of Maine."

People make fun of a big nose, but the big-nosed people can stand a little twitting, for the big nose is the only kind that makes its way through the world with credit to itself and to its possessor. The little stubby noses may have brilliancy and imagination, but the big nose, especially the big Roman nose, has executive ability and plenty of it. Nobody ever heard of a little-nosed man commanding an army or controlling large mercantile or industrial interests Such places are not given to little noses, and only big noses can fill them. A little nose in a responsible position may be safe, but will never be enterprising.—Kansas City Journal.

Every body knows that the earth makes one complete revolution on its axis every twenty-four hours. But few, however, have any idea of the high rate of speed necessary to accomplish this feat. The highest velocity ever attained by a cannon ball has been estimated at 1,626 feet per second, which is equal to a mile in 3.2 seconds. The earth, in making one revolution in twenty-four hours, must turn with a velocity nearly equal to a cannon ball. In short, the rate of speed at the equator has been estimated at nearly 1,500 feet per second, or a mile every 3.6 seconds, seventeen miles a minute.

My wife was confined to her bed for over two months with a very severe attack of rheumatism. We could get nothing that would afford her any relief, and as a last resort gave Chamberlain's Pain Balm a trial. To our great surprise she began to improve after the first application, and by using it regularly she was soon able to get up and attend to her house work. E. H. Johnson of C. J. The Weather and Crops.

The traditional April showers which have never yet been known to fail the Sonoma Valley farmer, have held off with great persistency this season. With half the month gone not a drop of rain has fallen and, what is more, there does not appear to be any prospect ahead for those much-needed April showers. Hay, grain and feed has suffered in consequence, and if the rain holds off much longer there will be a short crop of cereals.

As an off-set to the damage to hay and grain the fruit crop promises to be very large and fine. Peaches, pears, prunes, apples, apricots and in fact every other kind of fruit never looked better in April.

"BABY-BLUE EYES."

(A SONG FOR LITTLE SINGERS.)

Pretty baby-blue eyes,
Growing in the grass;
How we love to see you,
As through the fields we pass.

So innocent your faces,
So dainty every one;
As you all stand together
And smile up at the sun.

Above you feathered warblers
Soar and gaily sing;
Dear dwellers of the woodland,
And welcome guests of Spring.

Now we see your leaflets
Nodding to and fro;
Responsive to the breezes,
As they softly blow.

Ah, dear little flowers!
We may a lesson learn;
From all things that surround us,
Which ever way we turn.

Perchance by ever gazing
Up at sunny skies;
You have caught their color
In your soft blue eyes.

So may we by striving
For grace that Heaven imparts;
Retain its sweetest sunshine,
Forever in our hearts.

DEFECTS IN CAR TRUCKS.

One Serious Difficulty Is Found Where the Trucks Are Curved.

"The degree of perfection attained in mechanical productions is wonderful," said a mechanic to the writer. "In almost every line of mechanical inventions you see faults and difficulties overcome which make it seem nearly impossible to advance further. Viewed in this light, the imperfections in the construction of our railroad car trucks are strangely inconsistent, for they are palpably at variance with our high attainment in mechanical construction. I refer to the custom, which has never been improved upon since railroading began, of using wheels securely fastened to rigid axles. It would seem that on such an all important matter as this some improvements would be made, but there has been none. The running gear of cars as now constructed is only adapted for use on straight tracks. But as there must be curves on roads the trucks are simply forced around them.

"It is said that it requires one-third more motive power to carry a train around an ordinary curve than on a straight track. This is due to the strain to which the wheels are subjected. In making a curve the outside track is longer than the inside one. Now, with a wheel on each track and fastened immovably to an axle, both wheels must make the same number of revolutions. In rounding a curve how is the inside wheel, which has a much shorter distance to travel, to make an equal number of revolutions with the outside wheel? It is done in this way: The inside wheel slips upon the inner or shorter rail, while the outside one covers the longer distance. At the same time the inclination of the track required in making curves throws most of the load upon the wheel that is slipping, causing a great strain upon both wheel and axle. It has been computed that the strain is equal to double that of the rolling pressure on a straight track. To meet this the axle is made much thicker between the wheels than at the journals, where all the weight of the car and the load is carried. Though it has been long coming, I think the day will finally dawn when these defects in car trucks will be overcome."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Capital of Wisconsin.

Four Lakes was Madison's original name. That was 60 years and more ago. In 1836 there was a struggle of much fierceness over the location of the territorial capital among the cities ambitious to be known as such, these being Milwaukee, Green Bay, Prairie du Chien, Janesville and a dozen more. Governor Doty started from Green Bay on horseback, accompanied by a surveyor. The territorial governor was provided with a green blanket and a shotgun, the surveyor with a chain and compass.

In eight days they reached what was then called Four Lakes, and the governor had the surveyor make a plat of the place, whose sole occupant was the owner of a log cabin. He named the place Madison, in honor of the president of that name, proceeded on to Belmont, where the legislature was in session, and entered the future city of Madison as a candidate for capital honors. To the astonishment of competing cities, Madison was chosen. It was claimed at the time that when the legislature adjourned nearly every member of that body carried home with him the deed to a corner lot in the new town. —Milwaukee Sentinel.

What Did He Mean?

The black eyed widow looked unusually meditative, and one of the other widows offered her a penny for her thoughts.

"I was pondering," she said, "a remark that a bachelor made to me this morning and wondering whether to accept it as consolatory or the contrary."

"What was the remark?" asked the other widows with one voice.

"Well," the black eyed widow continued, "a theater party was made up in our house last night, and at breakfast the bachelor asked me why I was not of it. I replied that I was not invited—that I feared I was no longer attractive and suspected myself to be passee. The bachelor seized my hand respectfully, turned me gently toward the light, inspected me curiously and then exclaimed in a solemn tone, 'Madam, go up stairs and thank your Maker!'"

"The horrid thing!" cried all the other widows in a breath. "What on earth did he mean?"—New York Herald.

A Long Lived Pike.

In the museum at Mannheim there was a skeleton of a pike which measured 19 feet and had a ring around it with this inscription in Greek: "I am the fish which was first of all put into the lake by the hands of the governor of the universe, Frederick II, the 5th October, 1230." The fish, having been caught in 1497, was 267 years old.—London Sun.

A Wedding Dress.

A young Lake Benton carpenter recently married described the dear girl's dress as follows: "It has plain sides, with base around the bottom, crown molding above, dormer window sleeves running into the gable, with a scroll work of velvet around the neck."—Minneapolis Journal.

A Brave Butcher.

The author of the "Breitmann Ballads," Mr. C. G. Leland, was living in Munich, opposite a mediæval tavern called the Ober-Pollinger. His landlady was a nice old soul, with two daughters. On the ground floor of the house was a store in which cutlery and fireworks were sold.

Early one morning Leland and a friend were sitting on a bench before the tavern, waiting for a stagecoach to take them out of town. Suddenly bang! bang! crack! was heard from the fireworks, and puffs of smoke were seen coming out of the bursting windows.

The front store was on fire. It was full of rockets, crackers and other fireworks. In the back store there was a barrel of gunpowder, which Mr. Leland had seen a few days before when buying powder for his pistols.

The family were asleep. Leland ran across the street and rushed up three flights of stairs, screaming: "It burns! There's gunpowder!" Snatching a small bag containing his money, he tumbled mother and daughters down stairs.

He was just in time to see a stalwart butcher burst open the two inch door with an ax and roll out the barrel of gunpowder, 200 pounds, as the flames were licking the staves! The butcher saved them all, doing his work as calmly as if he had been butchering an ox. "Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war." —Youth's Companion.

Velocity of Electricity.

Science of Common Things says that the velocity of electricity is so great that the most rapid motion produced by art appears to be actual rest when compared to it. Some authorities have estimated that electricity will pass through copper wire at the rate of 280,000 miles in a single second of time—a velocity greater than that of light.

On the common aerial telegraph wire it has been found that the subtle fluid does not travel at a speed exceeding 16,000 miles per second, most authorities giving it as 14,000. It should be noted in this connection that the velocity of transmission increases with the distance between the wires and the earth, or, in other words, with the height of suspension. Subterranean wires, such as ocean and river cables, transmit more slowly. Experiments made at McGill college, Montreal, a year or two ago proved that the time required for a telegraphic signal to pass from that point to Greenwich, England, and back again was but 1.05 seconds. The distance traveled by the current in that infinitesimal portion of time was nearly 8,000 miles. The figures given in the opening, 280,000 miles per second, were deduced by Wheatstone in 1833, but have never been confirmed.

Paid His Bad Debts Last.

An old man whose capacity for liquor is only limited by his credit in the saloons entered a barroom where his score already slated had reached the limit. He tried to induce the bartender to give him just one more drink, but the drink dispenser firmly refused. Looking around he saw at a table a gentleman who was apparently much interested in the conversation. Going up to him he said: "Say, friend, can't you loan me a dime to get a drink? I pledge you my word I'll pay you back." The man handed out a dime, never expecting to get it back. The old fellow hobbled up to the bar, and displaying the dime said, "Now, John, let me have that whisky." The bartender had no sooner placed the drink on the bar than the toper gulped it down. Returning to the man at the table, he handed him the money, saying: "Here's your dime. I told you I'd pay it. I always pay borrowed money before whisky debts." The bartender was dumfounded, but recovered soon enough to hasten the exit of the customer who had bunkoed him.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A Premium on Calves.

Howard T., who has lived all his short life in a city, was taken to visit at a "real farm." The child was in ecstasies. Every animal on the place was a delight to him, but his affections especially centered about a Jersey calf.

"I would like to buy it," he said to the owner.

"But what would you give in exchange?" he was asked.

"My baby sister," replied the child, with the utmost gravity. "We have a new baby nearly every year at our house, and we've never had a calf."—New York Tribune.

Mutilated, but Witty.

A soldier who was an inveterate joker and punster, having had his nose, left cheek and a portion of his chin carried away by a shot in the battle of Shiloh, was asked by some of his comrades if they could do anything for him. "Boys," said he, speaking as well as he could in his mangled condition, "I should like a drink of water mighty well, if I only had the face to ask for it."—New York Ledger.

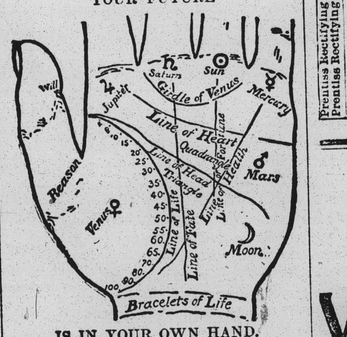
YOUR FUTURE



IS IN YOUR OWN HAND.

Palmistry assumes to tell what the lines in your hand indicate. It will amuse you, if nothing more. The above diagram almost explains itself. The length of the LINE OF LIFE indicates probable age to which you will live. Each BRACELET gives you thirty years. Well-marked LINE OF HEAD denotes brain power; clear LINE OF FORTUNE, fame or riches. Both combined mean success in life; but you must keep up with modern ideas to win it. You will find plenty of these in Demorest's Family Magazine, so attractively presented that every member of the family is entertained. It is a dozen magazines in one. A CLEAR LINE OF HEART bespeaks tenderness; a straight LINE OF FATE, peaceful life; the reverse if crooked. A well-defined LINE OF HEALTH spares you doctors' bills; so will the health hints in Demorest's. No other magazine publishes so many stories to interest the home circle. You will be subject to extremes of high spirits or despondency if you have the GIRDLE OF VENUS well marked; keep up your spirits by having Demorest's Magazine to read. By subscribing to it for 1894 you will receive a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides the superb premium pictures, 17x22 inches, "I'm a Daisy!" which is almost a real baby, and equal to the original oil painting which cost $30; and you will have a magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep you posted on all the topics of the day, and all the fads, and different items of interest about the household, besides furnishing interesting reading matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion magazine, its fashion pages are perfect, and you get with it, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and in any size you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $2.00, and you will really get over $25.00 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send for a specimen copy. A large QUADRANGLE means honesty; a large TRIANGLE, generosity; long FIRST DIVISION OF THUMB, strong will; LONG SECOND DIVISION, reasoning faculty. The MOUNT OF JUPITER betokens ambition; that of SATURN, prudence; the SUN, love of splendor; MARS, courage; MOON, imagination; VENUS, love of pleasure; and MERCURY, intelligence. Take our advice as above and you will be sure to possess the last and most valuable quality.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

STAR, LANE CO., OREGON, Feb. 8th, 1892.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.,

Dear Sirs:—I have used your KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE for the last twelve years never being without it but a few weeks in that time and I have made several wonderful cures with it. I cured a Curb of long standing. Then I had a four year old colt badly sweenied; I tried every thing without any benefit, so I tried your liniment, and in a few weeks he was well and his shoulder filled up all right, and the other, a four year old that had a Thoroughpin and Blood Spavin on the same joint, and to-day no one can tell which leg it was on. These statements can be proven, if necessary; the four year olds are now seven and can be seen any day at Cottage Grove, Or. S. Z. PAXTON.
